

Insurance coverage is expanded as follows for the insurance of interrupted travel or a late arrival home for losses or damage suffered after 31 October 2022 within the framework of coverage as defined in Article 7 of the general terms and conditions for foreign travel insurance PG-tur/22-10:

- The costs of interrupted travel or an extended stay abroad incurred by a policyholder because of the requirement to quarantine abroad as a result of contact with someone who has contracted Covid-19 (even though the policyholder him/herself is healthy) are also covered.
- If you have family insurance, the costs of interrupted travel or an extended stay abroad are also covered for those family members who have travelled with the policyholder who is ill, injured or required to quarantine. The costs will be covered up to the insurance amount agreed in the policy.
- The costs of an extended stay abroad are covered for a maximum of 14 days.
- Insurance coverage of an interruption to travel or late arrival home has already been added free of charge to Package A (up to EUR 500) and Package B (up to EUR 1,000). The existing coverage of costs of up to EUR 2,800 remains as part of Package C.

The condition for insurance coverage is a valid insurance policy at the time the loss event occurs.
